

WAKEFIELD RESIDENCE

Adelaide,
South Australia

Originally an Old Boys Institute, JPE successfully converted this heritage listed building into the Wakefield Residence in the Adelaide CBD.

Formerly utilised as an education and office facility, the development engages the historical context of the site with the provision of lodging and office facilities.

Over three levels and 3500m² the design provides quality serviced accommodation incorporating private and communal areas including an eastern walkway and roof terrace.

The project employs sound ESD and energy efficient design practices through services selections and principles of adaptation and reuse in the preservation of the heritage listed façade and the spatial organisation around the existing structural fabric.
